How do I access the HS/HSL online resources?

The Health Sciences and Human Services Library (HS/HSL) offers its faculty, students, and staff access to over 45 databases including MEDLINE, International Pharmaceutical Abstracts (IPA), CINAHL, PsycINFO, Social Work Abstracts (SWAB) and Science Citation Index Expanded. The HS/HSL also provides access to over 3,000 electronic journals. These resources can be accessed from computers within the library or on campus as well as from offsite.

Starting June 19, 2006, a proxy server is no longer required to access the HS/HSL Databases and E-journals from offsite locations.

For information on how to remove the proxy configuration on your browser go to <http://www.hshsl.umaryland.edu/proxy/>.

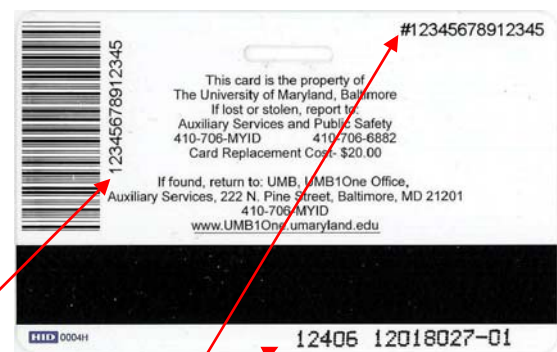

What You Need To Connect to HS/HSL Databases and E-journals from Offsite

Accessing HS/HSL E-resources

1. Connect to the Internet via your own Internet Service Provider (ISP). If you are using a campus computer that is already connected to the Internet via a Local Area Network (LAN), this is not necessary.
2. Launch your web browser.
3. Go to the HS/HSL web site at <http://www.hshsl.umaryland.edu> and select Databases or Electronic Journals from within the Electronic Resources section. Or click on Databases or Electronic Journals under Resource Quick Links.
4. Click on the database or electronic journal you want to access.
5. A login window will appear. Enter your last name and 14-digit barcode.
6. After you authenticate with your last name and barcode you should be given access to the database or electronic journal.
