She spoke this new role allowing her to interact and network with persons that she would not have connected with otherwise. Ms. Dickerson expressed her gratitude to be able to work at the capacity granted through her appointment. She stated that it is her belief that each person working at UMB should be granted equal opportunity to grow and feel supported. She added that she views staff senate as the heartbeat and one of the governing trifactors that exists within UMB to create an environment of opportunity; each one of the trifactors is important. Chief Leone commented that although the Blue lights are installed the UMBPD is currently working on an app that will allow the campus members to communicate via a mobile device as well. He added that although it may appear as overlapping systems, they are both necessary and important in reinforcing safety.

Questions:
  o Jill Hamilton commented that the app will be a great inclusion since there may be instances where an individual may not feel safe to stand at the Blue light phone to communicate with UMBPD. She added that although the Blue light phones are important they may not apply to every situation.
Chief Leone agreed that the overlap of technologies may seem redundant but they are necessary to provide options in varying circumstances. He added that he is working with Greg Brightbill and vendors in finalizing the app.

Christina Fenwick commented that she is really excited to see that UMBPD is offering a Virtual defense class in the future. She looks forward to it.

Chief Leone said that he is hopeful that it will be offered sometime during this semester and commented that some kinks are being worked out.

Sarah Hokenmaier highlighted the Polar Baer Plunge, the UMBPD’s involvement and the event success.

Susan Holt commented that while she understands that having an app to communicate to the UMBPD is helpful and convenient, she believes that the Blue Light Phones are critically important when you have been robbed of your cell phone and/or personal belongings and need immediate help.

Christina thanked Chief Leone for the updates.

❖ Guest Speaker(s)

Mark Emmel, MAS, Director, Organization and Employee Development Professional Development Forum 2021

Mark expressed his gratitude to the Staff Senate for including the Employee Recognition in the Staff Senate’s communication with the UMB campus. He reminded the meeting of the James T. Hill Scholarship award which was established to support the University’s commitment to staff development in recognition of the longtime vice president. He informed that the $2000 reward can be used towards professional development costs such as books, or fees.

- The USM Professional Development planning committee usually meets quarterly, however recently meetings have been more frequent (every two weeks). Mark spoke of recent committee discussions that centered on planning the Professional Development Forum during the covid-19 pandemic. The committee recognized that there was an opportunity to expand the Professional Development Forum for a week using a virtual platform as more employees are working remotely. Mark explained that extending the forum to a week of activities will allow for a variety of offerings and facilitators as well as allow for more participation. He reflected on feedback received from the last Professional Development Forum (about 1,333 responses to the post forum survey) and the most expressed concern was that persons could not attend all of the various presentations due to time conflicts. He added that expanding the forum will also allow for more schools and departments involved. Currently there are about six schools that will be collaborating for the event including University of Maryland College Park, University of Maryland, Baltimore, Frostburg University, UMBC, and Towson University. Mark believes that the forum could host as much as 900 participants this year. The theme for 2021 Professional Development Week will be USM Workplace 2021 & Beyond, and will focus on: Diversity, Equity and Inclusion; Workplace Productivity; Wellness; and Leadership. Forums will be held during the week of June 7, 2021. Mark has promised to return to the Staff Senate to provide additional information.

Questions:

- Christina Fenwick noted that in the past there were representation from the Staff Senate on the planning committee. She asked if there was a need for any staff senators on the committee.
- Mark Emmel acknowledged that Christina was correct, but noted that it may not be necessary at this point in the planning. He added that there were representations from schools and departments that provides a wide scope of ideas and recommendations.
- Sharese Essien asked if there was representation from any of the women affinity groups noting that these groups bring unique perspectives on career development and opportunities.
- Mark Emmel responded that the question was very important and that he will provide feedback on the involvement of these groups. He added that more likely than not, there would be representation from these groups in the planning.

Lt. Matthew Johnson, University of Maryland, Baltimore Police Department, Cold Weather Kits

- Lieutenant Johnson expressed gratitude for the Staff Senate’s contribution to the Cold Weather Kits initiative in January 2021; Staff Senate contributed 100 kits. He explained that the initiative has been existence for the past three winters. As officers encounter homeless persons while carrying out their duties, they engage in conversations to assess needs. Officers are able to provide weather kits and refer persons in need to other resources. Lt. Johnson commented that the pandemic has affected some of the community outreach programs that the UMBPD facilitated in the past, but they are continuing to provide resources where possible to the community.
Officer Yale Partlow, the UMBPD homeless outreach liaison and member of the Crisis Intervention Team informed the meeting of the kits content. He explained that most models for kits contain items necessary for survival including socks, feet warmers, gloves, a bar of soap, lip balm, and a face mask (consistent with Covid-19 advisories). The kits also include women hygiene products which is not included in commercially available survival kits. He extended his appreciation for the contribution made by the Staff Senate. He added that having the ability to provide the resources and connect individuals to appropriate social services builds rapport and community trust.

Questions:
- A meeting attendee asked how officers make the decisions in distributions.
- Officer Yale responded that decisions are made after the officer engages in a conversation that informs if there is a need for resources and/or services. Twice a week UMBPD patrol the community with a clinical team (nurse, social worker, and members of other agencies around the community).
- Lt. Johnson commented that the kits provides an opportunity to break the ice and have conversations, building relationships within the community and addressing mental health and homelessness is important in ensuring that the incidence of harm is decreased.
- Christina Fenwick thanked the UMBPD for their presentation and accredited the Staff Senate’s involvement in the Cold Weather Kits imitative to Sarah Hokenmaier, Jill Hamilton and the rest of the members of the Staff Senate Community Engagement committee.

❖ Committee Reports:

University Life (Updates provided by Thomas Hockensmith)
- The committee is finalizing communication with leadership as they prepare for the upcoming town hall. The Staff Senate UMB leadership town hall is now scheduled for February 25, 2021 and will replace the Face to Face forum with President Jarrell that had been previously scheduled for that day. The forum panel will include: Dawn Rhodes, Jonathon Bratt, Roger Ward, and a representative from HR. - Thomas Hockensmith informed the meeting that topics were chosen from themes that were derived from the survey. He explained that focused discussions will allow more concerns to be addressed within the hour scheduled for the forum. He promised to send the topics and the survey to the executive team to be disseminated to the rest of the staff senate members.

- Ayamba Ayuk-Brown commented that she receives many concerns regarding the possibility of snow days being paid leave to accommodate for parents who may have challenges with closed day care centers or other dependent care challenges. She added that although the option is given to use liberal leave, employees feel less appreciated when they have to use personal leave on those days.

- Thomas Hockensmith responded that although he could relate to some of those concerns that specific topic may not have been included in the forum discussion theme plan.

- LaToya Lewis commented that the issue with snow days being paid time off was addressed in past meetings and in her recollection HR explained that some of the time off policies are consistent with the state policies. Since UMB employees are considered state employees, there are some changes that cannot be made unless they are made through the state of Maryland legislative process.

- LaKeisha Wilson reminded that meeting that pre-Covid it was 1%, but it is now mandatory to telework.

- Sarah Hokenmaier asked if there will be representation from parking on the panel, since there have been concerns of parking fees during covid-19 mandatory telework.

- Campus communication. Christina also noted that most of the UMB leadership could not attend the February Staff Senate meeting because of the conflict in schedule.
- Gregory promised to address the conflict with DAC.
- Taylor De Boer informed the meeting that the GRID is launching a student incubator program intended for students that are aspiring entrepreneurs. Students selected for the program will be paired with mentors that will guide them in achieving milestones in their careers. More information will be forthcoming.
- Sarah Hokenmaier informed the meeting that there were no new updates from the Funding Model Committee. She reminded the Staff Senate that it is expected that the next fiscal year will be challenging. She commented that leadership will be assessing ways in which to cut the budget without job loss etc. and suggested that those who would like to advocate for hybrid working models and maintaining telework should communicate how remote work saves money (Building energy bills, etc.).
Christina Fenwick agreed and added that remote work saves on paper, ink and energy making it a valid consideration. She added that it has been speculated that the decision (telework/work models) will remain with the schools and supervisors. She commented that these ideas can be addressed with leadership at the town hall but senators should send concerns and recommendations to the executive team to bring to leadership at meetings.
