Leadership Updates

➢ Staff Senate welcomes Diane Forbes Berthoud

- Dr. Forbes Berthoud, PhD, MA is the Chief Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Officer and Vice President and she joined the University July 1, 2021.
- Dr. Forbes Berthoud has been tasked with leading the institutional equity, diversity, and inclusion strategy and implementation for UMB.
- At this time, she is mostly engaged in an environmental scan of campus, by looking at data and having conversations with everyone.
- She plans to create a framework in the next year with all the information and data collected from faculty, staff, and students.

➢ Juliet Dickerson – Human Resources

- Open Enrollment information will come out soon for UMB employees
- Benefit enrollment will be virtual again this year.
- The Benefits team is finalizing the dates to roll this out to staff.
- No information is available yet for the FY 2022 Rates.

Question I am hearing at my school that Human Resources is understaffed, and things are being processed slower than normal.

Response from Juliet:
- Staffing in Human Resources – things are not being processed in a timely matter and Human Resources is behind. Every function area is down a position.
- New people have been hired and are being trained in their positions. We will be fully staffed in a few weeks.

Question If I have gone through the normal Human Resource channels and not received resolution or need further help, who can I contact?

Response from Juliet:
- Please contact the Director of each of the functional areas.
- Please reach out to Juliet Dickerson if they are having issues getting response or resolution to their Human Resources concern.

Question - Will the insurance providers be the same for the insurance in FY 2022?

Response from Juliet: Juliet has not heard anything about vendors changing to date. She will confirm.

Question – Is there an update list of who the best person is to contact for Human Resources or an organizational chart?

Response from Juliet:

- She will do what she can for the Human Resources side, to update organizational charts once positions are filled.
- Juliet reminded everyone that Payroll is not part of Human Resources. Payroll is part of Financial Services.

Question – Where are we in the process for the telework agreement?

Response from Juliet:

- It has taken time to get the language set for the telework policy.
- There have been having issues with the technical pieces of DocuSign and are delayed. She hopes to have this out soon, as they just finished the last round of testing.

Question – I attended the Supervisor open forum and supervisors will have to ask new hires, if they have been vaccinated or not, as that question has not been confirmed by Human Resources?

Response from Juliet:

- This process is still pending for new employees. Human Resources is communicating to new hires that they have to be vaccinated. It is in the job description, the offer letter and the welcome letters, that they need to prove their vaccination status.
- CITS is working on a new system with the onboarding process, to assist new hires with uploading their vaccines information immediately.
- Related to the vaccine mandate, every week the Deans and VP’s get reports on the employees who have no information related to vaccine status or information that they are not vaccinated.
- Letters are being sent to employees describing the consequences of not getting a vaccine. The Benefits team in Human Resources is available to help employees get information in the system and also to help them update the most recent information.
- Medical and Religious exemptions are up to date for processing in Human Resources.

Question: – Does the teleworking involve full teleworking or partial teleworking?

Response from Juliet:

- It involves both. The telework agreement is an agreement between the supervisor and employee, including the guidelines for each school and administrative unit.
Question: – Part of the current telework policy where teleworking and the vaccine mandate is that unvaccinated individuals are unable to telework and must be on campus 100% now I recognize the fact that we’re using telework as a carrot stick mentality to get individuals vaccinated, however, as someone who is vaccinated, I think it may be a little counterintuitive to then require individuals who are not vaccinated to be on campus 100% therefore possibly putting those of us who are vaccinated at higher risk of being exposed. Research support this, individuals who are not vaccinated whereas, let’s say I get the new Delta, I may spread it a little bit, not good, but I may spread a little bit. However, if someone is unvaccinated the amount of viral load that they spread is just like tenfold, and so I am curious why? I don’t think that is the right choice because it is putting those of us who are vaccinated at a higher risk, and unfortunately, I do believe those that are not vaccinated should not be on campus, rather than what the policy has.

Response from Juliet:
- As we discussed, the consequences were decided in the April/May 2021, timeframe, as to how to handle those who are not vaccinated.
- Human Resources negotiated with the unions to get support.
- The University did not have a lot of tools, to negotiate these consequences, we were not in the same place as we are now with the Covid 19 variants. This situation is evolving so quickly. Juliet does not have an answer currently or additional information.
- At the highest level of the organization, exactly what you have expressed is exactly what they are discussing right now. Right now, we are committed to what we have publicized. These concerns have been raised in other meetings as well. This is under consideration for the path forward.

Parking Follow-up Questions: Christina Fenwick

- Angela Hall is seeking feedback from Staff Senate for the new Parking Revenue Control System (PARC) on the following questions
  - What is a pain point in our parking process?
  - What works well that we should be sure to include with the next parking equipment?
- Staff Senators go back to their schools and request feedback from other Staff
- Kecia Hitch is the Staff Senate Liaison, and she will take questions to the Parking and Transportation Committee meeting.
- All feedback should be entered on the Wufoo form created by Gregory Brightbill (emailled out to all Senators on September 5, 2021)
